GOLFER FATALLY INJURED IN CRASH

Richard Goggin, 23, son of Mrs. Mary E. Goggin, of 219 Ralston street, Ocean View, and a famous golfer, was fatally injured last Sunday when his automobile overturned at a sharp turn on the Skyline boulevard in San Mateo county.

Young Goggin, a professional golfer at Sharp's Park, was on his way to the park when the accident occurred.

The injured young man was extricated from the wreckage by Albert Gringell, of 168 Norfolk street, it was stated. He died at the Villa Sanitarium in Colma, where he was taken for treatment.

Willie Goggin, a brother, is in Philadelphia, preparing to participate in the national open tournament at the Merion Cricket Club next week.

Mrs. Goggin, the bereaved mother, had just left on a vacation and was called to her young son's death bed.

The funeral was conducted from the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co., last Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, thence to St. Michael's church in Ocean View, where a requiem high mass was celebrated at 9:30 o'clock. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery.

Woman Meets Death When Struck by Train

Mrs. Alexandrine Soubra, of Orland, Glenn county, was instantly killed last Saturday morning when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband was struck by a Southern Pacific train near Willows. Emile Soubra, her husband, sustanied a lacerated scalp and other head injuries.

After Mr. Soubra was treated at a local hospital at Willows he notified Mrs. Victorine Lombard, Mrs. Soubra's devoted friend, of her sudden passing.

Mrs. Soubra spent a week as the house guest of Mrs. Lombard and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Fellows, returning to her home at Orland last Friday night. The news of her death was announced by Mrs. Lombard and her daughter, Mrs. Fellows, to Mrs. Soubra's many Daly City and San Francisco friends.

The remains were brought to the W. C. Lasswell & Co. undertaking establishment, last Monday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Fellows, accompanied by the bereaved husband, followed the remains all the way from Willows.

The funeral services were conducted from the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co. last Tuesday morning at 9:15 o'clock in the presence of a large group of friends. Thence to Our Lady of Perpetual help Church, where a mass was said for the repose of her soul, at 9:30 o'clock. The interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery. Mrs. Soubra is survived by her husband.

VETERAN FIREMEN'S ASSOCIATION MEET

The Daly City Veteran Firemen met on Friday evening, June 1, in their hall, 188 Santa Barbara avenue, President A. Rickman presiding.

After transacting the regular routine business, the committee reported on the annual picnic and outing. Judging from the expressions of members, who participated in the event, all those who did not attend missed a wonderful time. The weather was ideal and the grounds very suitable for an outing of this kind. The regular spirit prevailed at the picnic; the same good fellowship, we so often experienced in the pioneer days, when Daly City was young. Everybody had fun and plenty to eat and good coffee to drink, not only for themselves, but were willing to share it with their neighbors.

With the committee report and the paying of the expenses another Veteran Firemen's picnic goes down in history as a pleasant event.

After the close of the business meeting the regular refreshments were served by the so efficient chef, Comrade John Hesselein.

LOCAL ATTORNEY WILL FORM N. R. A. COMMITTEE

Attorney W. H. Clay, of Daly City, has been appointed by General Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, to form a committee of prominent citizens of Daly City for carrying on a local program for public information and education concerning the achievements and aims of the National Recovery Administration. Within the next few days a committee consisting of a limited number of interested people will be formed as a nucleus, which will be enlarged and augmented from time to time by those who care to take an active interest in the N. R. A.

FIREMEN ENJOY ANNUAL OUTING

About two hundred and fifty Daly City firemen, their families and friends, motored to San Mateo Memorial Park last Sunday and spent the day among the beautiful redwoods.

There was not a dull moment during the day, swimming, baseball, races, games and dancing for those who cared to take part being enjoyed.

Those winning the races were:

Children, 1 to 6, Marian Lufano and Bobby Benassini.

Girls under 12, Marieno Sylvester and June Volkman.

Boys under 12, Robert Thoziani and Robert Wright.

Young Ladies, Melinda Lingaha and Alice Lucia.

Young Men, Tom Bergen and P. Rouf.

Married Ladies, Rose Lafroni and Ida Cunningham.

Married men, Jim Bergen and Frank Marshal.

Fat Ladies, Mrs. Eloise Harrison and Mrs. Rose Lafroni.

Fat Men, A. M. Harrison and Jeff Lee.

Members only, Jack Coleman of Company No. 4, and L. Volkman, of Company No. 6.

Assistant Chief Andy Chesney acted as general chairman. A. Rickman was the chef who made gallons of good coffee.

Captain Jack Cosbie, of Company No. 5, as chairman of the games committee, saw that every one had a good time, dancing with the married ladies as well as their daughters.

The following committee helped to make the day one to be long remembered: Commissioners Forsell, Graziani, Shaw and Augustien; Assistant Chiefs Bert Silicani and Andy Chesney; Captains J. Cosbie, Jeff Lee, Henry Lee and Conci; Lieutenants J. Ferro, Chris Brady and Kusber; Fire Marshal J. Fields.

Junior Catholic Daughters Serve Dinner to Leaders

On Saturday last, annual Communion Day—the first Saturday after the first Friday of June—for Junior Catholic Daughters of America, found the Daly City Juniors of Court St. Mary No. 1155 assembled at the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help facing the early morning—7:30 A. M.—to offer a special communion and mass in loving devotion to His Sacred Heart.

After mass, breakfast was served in the parish hall, with Father James Doyle, Chaplain, and Mrs. Josephine T. Johnson, chairman of Juniors of Northern California, as the honored guests. The decorations for the occasion were white and green, Junior colors. A huge birthday cake graced the center of the table, a surprise to the Junior chairman, whose birthday occurred on this day. Junior Reporter, Miss Patricia Kelly, on behalf of the Junior Court, presented Mrs. Johnson with an emblematic pin of the order—a birthday gift from the Juniors to their chairman.

After breakfast, a reception was held and games were played. The day will be a happy memory to those who attended.

LUNCHEON IN HONOR OF BRIDE AND GROOM

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bernard were honored guests at a luncheon given last Friday by Mrs. F. A. Simpson, of Winchester street, a sister of the bride. Mrs. Bernard was formerly Miss Mary E. Wyle, until her marriage several days prior to the luncheon. The bride and groom were the recipients of many lovely and useful gifts. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bernard, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Adams, of Vista Grande avenue, Mrs. E. Robles and Mr. and Mrs. E. Poch, of San Francisco.

The guests departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Bernard much happiness during their journey through life together.

Nazarenes to Welcome New Pastor Sunday

On Sunday, June 10, the Nazarene Church will welcome their new pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Logsdon, Jr., formerly of Tulare, California. Rev. Logsdon held a special meeting here in February and was well liked by all who heard him. All the friends of the church are urged to attend the Sunday services and welcome them to their new appointment. It is with sincere regret that we bid farewell to Brother and Sister J. M. Gill who have been in charge of the work in Daly City for the past year, and wish them success as they leave for their new pastorate at Winters, California.

GOV. ROLPH ENDS EARTHLY CAREER

Governor James Rolph, Jr., died last Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at Riverside Farm, Agnew, Santa Clara County. Mrs. Rolph, James Rolph III, his son, and other members of the family, were at his bedside when the end came.

Within four hours after the death of Governor Rolph, Lieutenant-Governor Frank F. Merriam, of Long Beach, took the oath of office and immediately assumed the full reins of governorship. His first official act was to order the state offices closed until Governor Rolph's funeral on Tuesday.

Thousands of citizens journeyed to the City Hall in San Francisco, where on a flower clustered catafalque reposed the body of the late governor, last Sunday and Monday, to pay their last respects.

The funeral was held Tuesday, the body being laid to rest in Greenlawn Cemetery.

Governor James Rolph, Jr., was born at San Francisco, August 23, 1869, in the Mission district "south of the slot." His father was a native of London and his mother, Margaret Nicol Rolph, was born in Edinburgh, Scotland.

In 1900, Governor Rolph married Miss Annie Marshal Reid. They had three children, Mrs. John J. Symes, Georgiana and James Rolph III.

In 1911, Governor Rolph was elected mayor of San Francisco for the first of five terms of four years each. He ran for governor in 1919, but was defeated by William D. Stevens, and continued as mayor of San Francisco.

In 1930, he was again a candidate for governor, and was elected.

Governor Rolph was stricken ill in February while on a speaking tour, and never fully recovered. He finally went to Santa Clara county for rest and treatment, where the end came.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY PARTY

A group of friends and former neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Blake in South San Francisco, last Tuesday evening, and gave them a surprise party, celebrating the fifteenth aniversary of the happy couple's wedding. A most enjoyable evening was spent playing indoor games and cards. A large fancy decorated cake was the table centerpiece. Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gustaveson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Vaillancourt, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Roberts, Mrs. Katie Sadler, Mrs. Florence Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. George Felsch, and Grant G. Morris.

ITINERANT LIST GROWS

The number of itinerants assisted last month by the San Mateo County Shelter was 2,367, a decided increase over the previous month. Last month 2,124 men were given assistance by the shelter. To date there have been 41,383 itinerants given shelter and aid by the institution. More meals were served this month, more clothing was issued and more work was given in return by the assisted men.

ROYCE SPORTS PLAY TIE GAME

The Royce Sports and the Jolley Knights played to a five to five tie baseball game last Sunday. The contest was played on the Rolph diamond in San Francisco at 12:30, and was called in the eight inning so as to allow another scheduled game to be played.

Despite the fact that the Royce team garnered eleven hits, all they could get for their efforts was five runs; whereas their opponents collected only five hits, yet were able to push across five runs and tie the score.

Walsh and Acruri led the hitting attack for the Royce team. Walsh amassed three hits in four times at bat, while Acruri had a perfect day at bat with two for two.

Gene Keagle and Pierotti shared the pitching burden for the Royce team, Gene pitching five innings and Pierotti one. By their reaction in this contest one can readily see the Royce Sports have a formidable hurling staff.

This coming Sunday the team will journey to Ukiah to play a game against the Ukiah State Hospital team, and according to all reports this tussle should be a closely contested one.

Manager Sammy Hawley has signed up a youngster by the name of Tommy Foley as utility man. In the two games he has played thus far Tommy has shown exceptional ability.

The box score follows:

PIONEER RESIDENT PASSES ON

Conrad Mundelius, one of the first residents of Daly City, who made his home for many years on San Diego avenue, in the building now owned and occupied by the Daly City Post of the American Legion, passed away on Thursday, May 31, at the home of his son in Sacramento. He was the beloved father of Fred C. Mundelius, of Sacramento, and Mrs. Emma Muncy, of Modesto. Mr. Mundelius was a native of Germany and was 88 at the time of his death. Funeral services were held last Saturday from the chapel of H. F. Suhr & Co., in San Francisco. Interment was at Cypress Lawn cemetery.

SILVER ASSISTED BY LEGISLATORS

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work.

Things are moving fast at Washington and silver is being given plenty of attention, as it should be. The House of Representatives passed a measure with provisions apparently satisfactory to President Roosevelt. It marks a distinct advance for reasonable reflation, so urgently needed in both gold and silver.

At present the metallic base for the issuance of currency is eighty-eight per cent gold and twelve per cent silver. By the new measure the proportion is changed to seventy-five per cent gold and twenty-five per cent silver, which sounds promising. The Secretary of the Treasury is the official specified to purchase at home and abroad 1,314,000,000 ounces necessary to establish the new ratio, with silver on hand in the United States May 1, of this year, to be bought for not more than fifty cents an ounce.

Issuance of silver certificates against the metal purchased is authorized, in such denominations as the Secretary of the Treasury determines. The President is granted permissive, not mandatory, power, to require delivery to the mints of all silver.

Silver miners continue to receive sixty-four and one-half cents an ounce, the other sixty-four and one-half cents of the legal $1.29 being retained by the Government as seigniorage. Under the measure passed by the House the miners are permitted to sell direct to manufacturers of silver products without payment of a fifty per cent tax on the profits of silver transactions made in the country after May 15.

* * *

President Roosevelt promised at election time to do something for silver and is carrying out that pledge. As to the extent of the victory of the silver advocates, the San Francisco Examiner recently said editorially:

"While this is a far cry from the free and unlimited coinage of silver most insistent silver men demand, it is quite evident from the President's message and discussions that he regards it as a serious undertaking to restore silver as a monetary metal of the nation.

"The silver certificates to be issued, which are full tender, are to be redeemable on demand at the Treasury in standard silver dollars. This proposition gives to silver a superior status to our gold reserves. Gold certificates are not now in circulation, and their redemption status is undetermined.

"Any material selected by Congress as full legal tender will serve for domestic money as the value of money is in what it will buy, rather than any intrinsic factor, but in international trade, either gold or silver is necessary because it represents a small, compact, and valuable commodity which is universally acceptable in exchange for any other goods or services."

M. M. Reese, well known mining engineer, is of the opinion the mines of the Cariboo District of British Columbia have a wonderful future. He predicts a long life of lode mining for the old placer camp. He compares the possibilities of the northern area to the Mother Lode District of our own state and to the Homestake District in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

In an interview with a reporter of The Alaska Weekly, Mr. Reese said:

"I believe the Cariboo will be what we call a deep-seated camp—that is, a camp where the values go to depths; without this no district can be more than a flash in the pan. Rich as it was in the past, I believe that the lode production of the Cariboo will greatly exceed the placer production that made the camp the sensation of the mining world when it was discovered."

* * *

We read in the breezy column of Sidney Norman in the Vancouver Sun that the Pioneer mine, up in the northern country, is the highest grade mine of its size, or any other, on the continent. It has won the championship within the short time of three years. As to the record for rich ore in quantity, the palm goes to the Sixteen to One mine, Sierra county, in this state, government reports showing that over $1,000,000 in coarse gold was taken from less than forty-two square feet of vein.

Resigns From Health Board

County Executive Walter T. Kellogg last Tuesday was in receipt of a letter from W. C. Hammett, consulting engineer of San Mateo and San Francisco, in which the latter tenders his resignation as a member of the San Mateo county board of health and welfare. Hammett has been a member of the board since October, 1933.

MERCHANTS PLAN ANNUAL OUTING

There was a well attended meeting of the Daly City Merchants' Association last Wednesday night at the City Hall Auditorium.

A petition asking the City Council to pass an ordinance similar to the one now in force in South San Francisco, prohibiting the distribution of advertising circulars, cards, etc., was the main subject of discussion, and President R. T. McHale ordered the petition, with the names of fifty merchants and business or professional men attached, to be brought before the City Council and left to them to decide whether such an ordinance should be passed here. Some of the merchants were opposed to its passage.

The remainder of the evening was consumed in preparation for the grand annual picnic to be held on July 22. An innovation will be introduced this year, that is, new and different from anything the merchants have sponsored in the past. There will be a number of concessions, one for beer, another for ice cream, candies, cigars, etc., and others for games. These will help to pay the expenses. There will also be races, baseball, horseshoes, and other games. The Eagles' band will be on the grounds, and a good orchestra will play for dancing.

This will be a basket picnic, and every one should bring their cups for coffee, which will be free. Rest assured there will be plenty to eat and drink on the grounds, and everybody will have a good time.

All the city and county officials will be invited, as well as those from San Francisco, including Mayor Rossi and the board of supervisors.

The people of Daly City are asked to set aside this day, July 22, for an outing and a day of relaxation, refreshment and repose, and join the great crowd that will journey to Oak Cove Park for the day. The location of the park is about a mile and a half west of San Mateo, and is a lovely spot among the hills. Jot down the date, Sunday, July 22, 1934. All will be welcome.

W. H. CLAY, Secretary.

LEGION AUXILIARY PRESENTS AWARD

Daly City Unit No. 410, American Legion Auxiliary, presented the American Legion scholarship award to Mildred Savage, of the Woodrow Wilson school, on Thursday evening of last week at the graduating exercises. The presentation was made by Vice-President Marcia Trier.

The annual Poppy sale was very successful. The members are grateful for the co-operation given by the public. This money will be used in the caring for the disabled veteran and his family.

This year the international convention of "Fidac" will be held in England. The purpose of the "Fidac" is to promote a friendly feeling between the peoples of the different countries for the furtherance of world peace. Many Units will hold entertainments for the promotion of this friendly association.

SURPRISE FAREWELL SHOWER

A group of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Mapes, of Hanover street, Saturday evening, May 26, and gave Mrs. Mapes a farewell party prior to her departure for her home in Montana. A pleasant evening was spent dancing, and at a late hour delicious refreshments were enjoyed by the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Janssens, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Tupper Mehan, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Gould, Miss Irene Boone and Roy Boone.

CHINATOWN TO BE VISITED BY PRESBYTERIAN YOUTH

Invited for dinner in Chinatown on Friday evening the young people of the Presbyterian Church will visit Chinatown this week to enjoy the mysteries of a real Chinese dinner. Miss Donalinda Cameron, the famed rescuer of Chinese slave girls, will be the hostess and a visit through Chinatown with one of the Chinese girls as guide will follow the dinner.

Annual Novena Opens Today

The annual Novena in honor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help will open this Friday, June 8, in the Parish church in Daly City. This Novena is a long established religious preparation for the fast day which takes place Sunday. June 17. The religious services will be conducted by the Redemptorist Fathers. Father Darmody, C. ss. R., will preach the sermons. A sacred concert on the chimes will be a feature of the evening services, commencing at 7:45 P. M.

May Activities of Jefferson Union High School P. T. A.

The month just past marked the close of a very busy season for all local units, and Jefferson High P. T. A. was no exception.

The delegates sent to the state convention at Sacramento returned May 5, after a most interesting and instructive five days' session in the capital city. The benefit derived from this convention will be of the utmost value in our work next year.

On the evening of May 11 a whist was held in the Senior room of the high school. It was well attended, and a substantial sum was realized with which to resume work in the fall.

The last regular business meeting of the school year, also the final program, interpreting the various departments of the high school curriculum was held Tuesday evening, May 15.

Mrs. M. Dunn and Mrs. R. Smith gave reports of the annual convention of the Seventeenth District. Mrs. T. Bentley gave a report of the state convention, stressing particularly the deepening crisis in education.

The program was sponsored by the Commercial department, the band and the chorus. A five minute typing contest by students in the several typing classes was followed by selections played by the band. The commercial geography classes presented an amusing and instructive play entitled "John Bull's Family Reunion." The principles of shorthand were explained and demonstrated by Esther Franklin and Laura Anderson, followed by groups of songs by the chorus. Olga Curusis, Dorothy Molinari, Glen Heidtmann, Lyla Crane, Hazel Liljeberg and Esther Franklin were presented as winners of the typing contest in their respective sections.

Mr. Ferguson closed the evening with a talk thanking the teachers and students for the spirit and co-operation shown in the programs of the year, and asking the parents present to act as missionaries in the effort to interest a larger proportion of parents in Parent-Teachers' Association membership for the ensuing year.

The following Friday, May 18, the unit participated in "The International Fair," held in San Mateo Junior College gymnasium. Members attending were Mesdames Crane, Smith, Davies, and Bentley. We contributed to the district fund through the sale of ice cream at the Fair.

On May 23, several officers and chairmen motored to the delightful picnic and school of instruction held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Garland. A perfect day, a beautiful setting, the guidance received for our work, will make this event long remembered with real pleasure.

The joint installation of the officers of four local units on Friday evening, May 25, in the high school auditorium, marked the last event of the month. This is the third joint installation to take place in the P. T. A. history of the northern part of San Mateo county. These events promote a better understanding among the local units and serve to remind us that from the little child ready for the summer round-up to the adolescent about to leave high school, we are all working for the same cause—child welfare.

We were delighted to have as honor guests for the evening, Mrs. J. J. Gaarland, President of the Seventeenth District, Mrs. E. I. Bartlett, Junior Past President, and Mrs. J. R. Spann, State Life Membership chairman. We were also privileged to have on display the beautiful life membership cup which has become the permanent property of this district. Henceforth it holds a place of honor in the trophy case at the Burlingame high school.

From this unit the following officers were installed by Mrs. Garland: President, Mrs. T. Bentley; Honorary Vice-President, Mr. James Ferguson; Vice-President, Mrs. L. W. Prestidge; Recording Secretary, Mrs. J. D. O'Brien; Financial Secretary, Mrs. W. Kahle; Treasurer, Mrs. F. C. Davies; Auditor, Miss Marjorie Robinson; Historian, Mrs. C. S. Flick; Parliamentarian, Mrs. G. W. McIsaac.

Though we have not reached the goal in many ways as set last fall, yet many worth while things have been accomplished for parent-teacher work in the high school.

"There's a beautiful view at the top of the hill,
If yours be the strength to climb;
There's always a lift and a rift in the clouds,
To disclose the peaks sublime.
The road may be rough, you may blow and puff,
But never you mind, soon you're scaling the bluff,
Then yours is the view at the top of the hill,
If you've but the strength to climb."

OCEAN SHORE HIGHWAY SURVEY TO BE MADE SOON

An early survey of the section of the proposed Ocean Shore highway from Rockaway to Montara was promised by Earl Lee Kelly, state director of public works, in a letter to Assemblyman Frederick Peterson.

Kelly, in his letter, said that the district engineer had been instructed to confer with officials of Joint Highway District No. 9 on the proposed coastside road and advise them of the estimated cost of the work.

The survey will be made by the state as soon as the district places a deposit on the cost of the work, Kelly stated.

DAILY VACATION SCHOOL IN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Beginning Monday morning at 9 o'clock, June 11, the Presbyterian Church on Hanover street will open a three weeks' vacation school. Every morning at 9 o'clock except Saturday, the school will open with a service of worship followed by recess, and the last period of the school will be occupied with craft work. Quilts, rag rugs, wood work, sewing, painting, and various other activities will be engaged in. The children of the community are heartily invited to attend.

REDWOOD CITY MAN INJURED

Layton Stone, of Redwood City, is recovering from painful injuries which he received on the Embarcadero in San Francisco when his car crashed into a Belt Line railroad engine. He was treated at the Harbor Emergency hospital for a fractured rib and cuts and bruises.

Noted Movie Actor Passes On

Lew Cody, one of the film colony's best known characters, died quietly in his sleep on Thursday of last week. Cody was found by a servant who went into his bedroom to call him for dinner. Physicians said he had been dead eight or ten hours. He had suffered a heart attack.

Judge Johnson a Candidate

Judge Ellis C. Johnson announces himself as a candidate for re-election to the office he now holds, that of Justice of the Peace of the First Township, San Mateo county.

FARMERS ARE PLANNING FOR GREAT SPORT

By J. W. MARCHBANK

On inquiry of a man with a small farm the other day as to the best way of embarking on breeding thoroughbreds he was advised to purchase a few broodmares of good blood lines. He was thinking of buying a stallion as well but was frankly told by the racing official whom he [illegible]

Colma, accompanied by Mrs. Sophie Gray, motored to Mendocino City last Tuesday and spent the day with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kusber, of Werner street, motored to Vallemar Park last Sunday, where they enjoyed a delightful day's outing at the Colma Vista Grande Aerie of Eagles' annual picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Le Blanc, of Evergreen avenue, are receiving the congratulations of their many friends upon the birth of a son, born Thursday of last week at a San Francisco hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bailly of Moltke street, with a party of friends, attended the annual ball of the Signal Corps of the National Guard, given last Saturday at the Armory, on Mission street, in San Francisco.

Edmund Cavagnaro, of Goethe street, returned to his home last Saturday afternoon from St. Luke's hospital. He had been in the hospital undergoing treatment for injuries sustained in a recent automobile accident.

Mrs. P. G. G. Kunze, of Colma, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Kost and Hugo, of Winchester street, and their house guest, Mrs. Strommen, of Chicago, on a motor trip to Vallemar Park, where they spent a delightful day picnicking.

On Thursday night of last week Andy Chesney, of Crocker avenue, was honored by being unanimously elected president of the Harbor Beneficial and Social Club, for the second year.

This organization affords a memorable trip for the motorist driving to points in the Northwest, according to L. L. Norris, Touring Director of the National Automobile Club. The route is in exceptionally fine condition.

The Redwood Highway is in good shape to Cresent City, with the exception of a couple of miles of construction near Garberville, which causes very little inconvenience to traffic.

At Crescent City, instead of continuing over the Redwood Highway to Grants Pass, continue directly north over U. S. 101 to Brookings, Bandon and Marshfield. This is all oiled macadam, with the exception of a short stretch of gravel south of Port Orford, which is being oiled now and will be completed within the next couple of weeks. Motorists driving over this section before completion of the work will encounter no inconvenience other than short delays, as the road is being oiled one-half at a time, with traffic taken through on the other half. Road crews are working at the rate of a mile a day. Traffic is not permitted over the freshly oiled road until it has been covered with fine gravel, thereby eliminating possibility of splashing oil on cars.

At Marshfield, good hotel accommodations and tourist camps are available.

Between Marshfield and Newport, there are five ferries, all free. They are owned and operated by the Oregon Highway Department. These ferries, operate on schedules varying from every fifteen minutes to a half hour. It is rarely necessary to wait more than a few minutes for a boat. These short water trips offer a diversion and rest from driving and really add pleasure to the trip. Within the next year or two, all of the ferries will have been replaced by bridges. Work has already begun on the first span. The last of the five will be under contract by June 10.

The bridges will not facilitate travel but will be objects of interest. The one across Coos Bay, just north of Marshfield, will be the largest bridge in the state of Oregon, about one mile long, of the cantilever type, with a clearance of 143 feet for shipping. The middle arch will be a little less than 800 feet, with simple, but beautiful architectural lines.

The span over Yaquina Bay will have a tremendous concrete arch over the channel, with a width of over 500 feet and a total height over 250 feet, with the roadway 132 feet above water. The other bridges will not be so large, but each will be adapted to its environment and of the best engineering and architecture. All will be toll-free.

The Oregon Highway is a floral treat at this time. Rhododendrons and Azaleas are in full bloom, as are wild Fox Glove, Scotch Broom, Canterbury Bells and dozens of other varieties of wild flowers. Truly this route is a bower of blossoms, deserving of its appellation, "The Trail of Flowers."

For those who do not wish to drive as far north as Astoria, there is a splendid road leading into Portland; the Salmon River Cut-off, an important lateral, improved to standard width and graded and oiled gravel-surfaced. There are several other laterals leading to the Pacific Highway, south of the Salmon River Cut-off, but to take any one of them would mean missing a part of the scenery along this road; therefore, it is advisable to continue as far north as possible.

This route will add but little extra time to points in the Northwest, but will add unlimited pleasure to the trip.

Johnson Quits Governor Race

State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, whose daughter, Virginia, was the victim of a torch death, last Friday withdrew from the governorship contest. Overwhelming grief and shock deprived him of the necessary heart and strength for an intensive campaign, it was announced. Johnson will stand for re-election as treasurer.

Victim of Auto Accident

Harry F. Cronin, 24, former San Mateo boy, killed in an automobile accident in San Francisco last Saturday, was buried Tuesday at Holy Cross cemetery, Colma, following funeral services in San Francisco.

George Berwick, of Niantic a[illegible] nue, returned to his home last Tu[illegible] day after being confined to the Co[illegible] munity hospital for the past t[illegible] weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Foppiano, of Ev[illegible] green avenue, were dinner guests [illegible] Sunday at the home of Mr. and M[illegible] Mal Tacchi, of Miller avenue, So[illegible] San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cochran, of S[illegible] Jose avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Ke[illegible] and family motored to Valdemar P[illegible] last Sunday, where they attended Eagles picnic.

Little Jean Michelsen, of B[illegible] lingame, has been spending the [illegible] week at the home of her gra[illegible] parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Michels[illegible] of Miriam street.

Mrs. Paul Selmi, Mrs. J. Selmi [illegible] Miss Dina Pastorino were among guests at the dinner given last T[illegible] day evening by the Druids in the I[illegible] Cafe in San Francisco.

A. J. Green, E. Bailly and W. G[illegible] kuhl attended the annual sm[illegible] given last Friday evening by Francisco Post, American Legio[illegible] Larkin Hall, Civic Auditorium.

Miss Ernestine Cuneo, daughte[illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cuneo, of Pe[illegible] street, who has been ill at Commu[illegible] hospital for the past two week[illegible] reported as getting along nicely.

The Railway Express Agency is [illegible] 16-pound shot, [illegible] events at all track and field meets, is 53 feet.

The amount of energy possessed by an average-sized automobile traveling at 60 miles an hour would be sufficient to throw that shot 52,800 feet—nearly ten miles.

To use another illustration, a car traveling at 60 has the same capacity for inflicting damage as if it were driven off a twelve-story building.

Those facts, brought out in a recent report, give some idea of the potential menace of speed on the highway. During recent years the death and injury rate per accident has been rising—and the increase was especially marked in 1933. The chance of a person being seriously hurt or killed in an accident is substantially greater now than it would have been five or ten years ago in a similar accident. The reason can be expressed in one word: Speed.

Today's cars have better brakes, better steering, better lights and stronger bodies than those of the past. By all engineering standards they are safer. What has happened is that the public has exaggerated the increased safety factors—and actually turned these improvements into dangers.

Watch your speed—adapt it to local conditions at all times—and you will have taken a long step toward becoming a safe driver.

An alarm clock is always a nuisance, and to L. E. Pugh, of Birmingham, and L. W. Young, of Dallas, it proved to be a positive menace. Within a few days of each other both men cracked their necks by yawning and stretching at the unwelcome sound of the alarm. Both are recovering, after wearing steel braces to aid the fractured vertebrae to knit.

James Rooney of Newark, who can not read, argued with a traffic cop who stopped him for having no license plate. He exhibited to the policeman a document which he said entitled him to drive his car. It was marked "back seat driver's license," and Roney said he had paid a stranger $3 for it.

Dr. Cruez of Vienna declares that few women have legs which are mates, and that in most cases the difference between the two is very marked. It must have been an interesting survey which led to this conclusion.

Failure to Have Contractor's License Cause for Loss of Suit

Because of a provision in the State Contractor's law that says an unlicensed contractor shall lose all rights to bring or maintain a court action, a decision was rendered by Justice Ellis Johnson of the First Township in favor of George Sutherlin, defendant, and against Victor Chianelli, a concrete contractor of San Bruno.

A short time ago Chianelli was arrested and found guilty of violating the Contractor's Act by Judge Rudolph Rapsey of San Bruno, the complaint having been filed by the State Bureau.

ROCKER P.-T. A. HONORED BY SEVENTEENTH DISTRICT

Crocker P.-T. A. has been honored by the appointment of our Mrs. J. E. Walker as "Thrift" chairman of the Seventeenth district for the coming year. This office is in the department of the sixth vice-president. We all wish her a very successful year.

Teresa Fontana, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Fontana, of Daly City, is attending the Dolores Premier School of Beauty Culture in San Francisco. Teresa, who graduated from Jefferson High school in 1933, is a member of the South San Francisco Chapter, Regina Elena, of the Druids. She will graduate from the Dolores school in August.

Blast Kills Woman

Explosion of a gasoline stove in a Sanger ranch home last Tuesday cost the life of Mrs. Josephine Curtis, 33, and resulted in serious injury to her husband and son. Mrs. Curtis died after being taken to the Fresno General hospital.

Menlo Park Residents Injured

Dispatches from Salt Lake City carried word that Mrs. Lucy Gussey, of Menlo Park, and her children, Victor, 15, and Joan, 7, suffered minor injuries when their car collided with a train there.

Attorney W. H. Clay, of Daly City, announces that he will be a candidate for the office of justice of the peace of the First Township of San Mateo county, at the primary election to be held on August 28, 1934. Many prominent residents of the First Township have sponsored his nomination and pledged their support of his candidacy.

If elected he will bring to the office the experience of over twenty-five years actual practice in the profession of the law, with the added qualities of honesty and integrity.—Advertisement.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

Some cities need to make plans for better business and then go to work.

This is not the time to think of the past, but to help plan for a glorious future.

Jim Barrett, managing director of the Oklahoma Biltmore Hotel, says that an investigation will show that the best sections in American cities today are those that did not have the major advantages in the beginning, but men with foresight, courage and energy have co-operated to overcome natural disadvantages and have overcome them to the point where it is all but forgotten that they ever existed.

It seems strange with the allegedly best brains in Europe spending years and much money in trying to find a formula for disarmament that there has not as yet been a way found.

Many cities are in a position to move ahead. All they need is for a lot of citizens to give the live ones a chance.

The whaling industry will never regain is former glory. This is a matter for sincere regret. With its passing goes a race of men who did not know the meaning of the word "fear."

Competition between cities spurs them on to civic achievement.

NAVY INCREASING PERSONNEL

Chief Yeoman J. H. Cannon of the Navy recruiting service advises that the Navy Department has increased his quota for the month of June and that he anticipates further increases during the next six months. Men eligible for enlistment are those between the ages of 17 and 25, who are citizens, of good character, physically fit, unmarried and of average intelligence. A high school education is not required.

Men interested in a Naval career should make application in person at the Navy Recruiting Station, located at 100 Harrison street, San Francisco, or at a recruiting station nearest their home.

A HUNDRED YEARS FROM NOW

All people wonder at times what life will be like fifty or a hundred years ahead. Perhaps it is natural to think more about such matters when things have not been going so well, as is the case now. That makes it all the more creditable to be able to examine the future clearly and to find that it looks good.

At a recent dinner in Chicago, some three hundred leaders from business and science studied the future together. There were some inspiring speeches and many interesting statements communicated in writing.

The consensus was that bright times and wonderful things are ahead of us for the next hundred years. These experts did not say just when, but from their tone we gather that it will not be nearly so long as we had feared. The list of immediate concrete improvements was too long and dramatic not to be impressive, from electric motors run directly by sunlight to the cleaning up of the slums by the use of cheap pre-fabricated steel houses.

Scientists who spoke at the dinner did not believe that progress had ended. They foresaw and forecasted still greater inventions, still more new goods and types and kind of services. All these things mean employment, which is the great consideration. Research has not been unemployed during the depression. Science has gone on just the same. These things are of the spirit and they do not stop unless the spirit is defeated.

It is comforting to see that there is no room for defeatism in the minds of the three hundred representative leaders from all lines, and typical of all Americans and successful men.

PATRONIZE THE LOCAL MERCHANT

Live merchants of your home city sell merchandise that you like to buy. Pleasing prices in quality goods await you each day in the stores of your home city. And money spent in the local stores stays at home, and is put back into circulation in this community.

You will get the full benefit of quality, value and satisfaction and enjoy the many advantages offered by buying from the stores of your own home city.

Local merchants appreciate your business. They guarantee you the full worth of your money and satisfaction on every purchase made from them. Don't you think it a wise plan to do your trading in your home town?

ORGANIZED CRIME

From investigation by the National Crime Commission, it has been disclosed that a highly organized system of "fences," as receivers and disposers of stolen goods are called, handle more than $500,000,000 worth of loot each year. Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, who is chairman of the Commission, declares that the lone burglar is now a rarity, and that well organized gangs are plying their thieving trade along efficient business lines.

In order to do this they must have definite outlets for the property stolen. If these could be eliminated, Mr. Baker believes that the total thefts would be largely reduced. While police and other officers of the law are aware of this condition, and do what they can to break up these "fences," there is need for greater co-operation on the part of the public in keeping a lookout for places of this character and promptly reporting them to the police.

Losses suffered by the public from thefts, burglary and robbery almost equal the dessruction by fire. If these losses are to be lessened, there must be increased vigilance on the part of all citizens and a greater determination to aid in putting criminal gangs out of business.

THE FIRST OCEAN STEAMER

There was a special display of flags on government buildings and other observances to mark the one hundred and fifteenth anniversary of the sailing of the Savannah, the first ship to use steam in crossing an ocean, from Savannah, Georgia, for Liverpool, on May 24, 1819.

The Savannah was a tiny vessel, only 98 feet long, equipped with both sail and steam, and the voyage took twenty-six days. While approaching the English coast with smoke rolling from her stack, observers signalled to shore that a ship was on fire.

From Liverpool the Savannah went to St. Petersburg, where the czar is said to have taken much interest in the pioneer craft. A return trip to Savannah was successfully made, but the vessel did not pay, so her steam equipment was removed and she was used as a packet. The Savannah foundered in a heavy storm off Long Island a few years later.

It is a far cry from the little Savannah to the ocean liners of the present, some of which exceed 900 feet in length and have a displacement of more than 50,000 tons. But in spite of her diminutive size, the Savannah made maritime history, and her feat marked the beginning of a new era in ocean navigation.

A FAMOUS RIDE

As a change from the almost monotonous present day accounts of record-breaking airplane flights, the story of an old-time exploit on horseback is refreshing by way of contrast. Such a story was recently told in the New York Herald-Tribune, and deals with the famous ride of Felix Xavier Aubrey, who covered the 800 miles between Santa Fe and Independence in less than six days.

This happened in September, 1848, when settlements in the Southwest were few and far between. Aubrey had already made the trip in eight days, and wagered $1,000 that he could make it in six.

With relay horses stationed along the route, he started alone. At one relay point he found no mount, but its keeper killed and scalped by Indians, so with his famished horse he pressed on. Toward the end of another leg of the trip his horse gave out and he trudged twenty miles on foot to the next stop.

With little to eat and only two hours sleep except what he could catch while in the saddle, he finally reached Independence a few hours ahead of schedule, more dead than alive. Upon arrival, Aubrey had to be lifted from the saddle, which was caked with blood. But he had won his bet.

RACKETEER INSURANCE

Since the advent of the racketeers who collect tribute from small tradesmen, manufacturers and others through intimidation, a demand for insurance protection against the depredation of these crooks has been met by several insurance companies.

A writer in Popular Science tells of a clothing manufacturer in New York City who insured his place against damage by racketeers, and collected the amount of his loss when thugs ruined several thousand dollars worth of garments by throwing a stench bonmb containing chemicals which impregnated them with a smell that could not be eradicated.

It is said that between 500 and 600 other establishments have taken out similar policies. They evidently think it cheaper to buy this form of protection than submit to the demands of the racketeers.

It would be interesting to know just how the actuaries figure out the premium rates for such insurance, but it seems that they can do it. In fact, they will insure against almost any kind of hazard, from catching cold to being kidnaped. It is said that some families insure against the arrival of twins.

A feminist orator declares that working girls should receive men's wages. Some attain this goal by getting married.

Four-year-old Andrew Digirolamo, of Kansas City, is a confirmed smoker. Probably got the habit through reading the cigarette ads.

A suitor for the hand of a movie actress should never despair. His turn will probably come sooner or later.

THOUSANDS KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Between now and 1940, 190,000 people will be killed in automobile accidents. The total fatalities for the entire decade that began with 1930 will be 315,000; and the injury record will touch 10,000,000. The fatalities will be greater than the total of the soldiers killed in battle in the entire history of this country—and will surpass the battle casualties of the A. E. F. in the World war more than six times. The number of injured will be fifty times the number of A. E. F. soldiers wounded non-fatally in action.

That is what it is estimated will occur if the automobile accident record during the next six years follows the experience of the past four. As a matter of fact, there is an excellent chance that the number of fatalities and injuries will be greater still—the accident curve is tending upward, largely because of increased driving speeds.

There is one way in which this ghastly forecast can be proven wrong. That is by an aggressive campaign on the part of responsible motorists to modernize and also strengthen traffic laws, eliminate cars which are defective in brakes, lights, steering and other essential parts, and to pass legislation which enforces adequate examination of drivers. So long as the reckless, the incompetent and the irresponsible rule the highways, as they do now, the lives and property of all other motorists are in constant danger.

WILES OF WOMEN

Whatever one may think of the present female habits of painting, penciling, dyeing and the like, it must be admitted that while the effects obtained may be in a degree deceptive, there is no attempt made to conceal the fact that artificial aids to beauty are employed.

Even the most unsophisticated of men are aware that art is brought to the aid of nature with the utmost frankness. Whether the effects produced really lend charm to the modern woman is a matter of individual opinion.

In former times women who employed cunning devices to lure the male sex were frowned upon. A Massachusetts law of 1634 forbade the wearing of "any apparel, either woolen, silk or linnen, with any lace on it, or gold or silver threads." The English Parliament of 1770 passed an act providing "that any woman who shall entice into marriage any of His Majesty's subjects by means of perfume, false hair or false hips shall be condemned as a sorceress and the marriage shall be declared null and void."

Since those days customs have changed greatly, but human nature has not.

Colma News Notes

Mr. Charles Bianchi, of San Pedro avenue, is the proud owner of a new 1934 Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bocci motored to Stockton over the past week end to visit relatives.

Misses Martha Bianchi and Harriet Brewer spent a pleasant Monday afternoon in San Francisco.

Miss Lena Bianchi, cousin of Miss Emma Vallarino, of Railroad avenue, is spending a short vacation with her.

Messrs. Leslie Volkman and Leo Kusbur caught the limit of five bass at Thorton Beach on Friday of last week.

Miss Angelina Mozzini, of Clara street, has returned home from Saint Luke's Hospital and is convalescing at her home.

Mrs. A. Conserna and Mrs. De Mattei attended the Druid's banquet last Tuesday night at the Lido Cafe in San Francisco.

Miss Alma Camenzind, accompanied by Mrs. T. E. Martin, spent a delightful Sunday swimming and motor boating at Santa Cruz.

Misses Sophie and Mary Bertocchi and Adolph Bertocchi, and Mr. Louis Gianni spent Wednesday of last week swimming in the surf at Thorton Beach.

The many friends of Mrs. Emma Woolsey and son Oscar were in deep sympathy with them over the passing away of her beloved daughter, Mrs. Frances Michael, of Banta.

Mr. Joseph P. Bruno, 26, of Treat avenue, San Francisco, and Miss Ida Silicani, 25, of Colma, filed their notice of intention to wed in Redwood City during the past week.

Mrs. Emma Woolsey, former librarian of the Colma free library, who has been residing in Banta, due to ill health, has returned home to care for her five grandchildren, who were left motherless when their mother passed away recently.

Mrs. John Garibaldi, president of the Colma Parent-Teachers' Association, awarded the scholarship medal to Miss Mary Ellen Dunn, of the Jefferson Grammar School, on last Thursday evening at the commencement exercises at the Jefferson Union high school.

Many were deeply bereaved over the sudden passing of Mr. Harry Pierce, who passed away on Thursday of last week. Mr. Pierce, a pioneer of Colma, was popular among the school children as well as the older people, for he was the gardener of the Jefferson Grammar School for the past eighteen years.

Many people of Colma, as well as the hospital staff of the Villa Emergency hospital, were sorry to hear of the death of young Richard Goggin, brother of the professional golf player, Tom Goggin. Richard Goggin was an employe of the Salada Golf Club House. He was killed when his newly purchased car overturned early Sunday morning on Skyline boulevard.

Mrs. Fred Silicani, of Washington street, is able to be up and about after a week's illness.

Little Miss Eleanor Benedetti, of Clara street, is confined to her bed with an attack of measles.

The ice cream sale given by the Colma Parent-Teachers' Association on last Friday was a big success.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rose of Ninety-second avenue, entertained friends at a card party on Tuesday evening.

Messrs. Paul Guisti and Angelo Moresco spent an exciting day fishing for bass at Thorton Beach on Friday of last week.

The Colma Volunteer Fire Department will sponsor their monthly whist party on Saturday evening, June 9, in Jefferson Hall.

Messrs. Roy Silicani and "Bummy" Schone had a very successful day fishing at Thorton Beach, where they caught a fifteen-pound bass.

Mr. Edwin Wagner, popular patient of the Villa sanitarium, is doing very nicely and is expected to be able to return to his home in Los Angeles in a few weeks.

Many of the Colma boys reported a very delightful time dancing with the Freuleins at the German picnic at Lovchen Gardens on Sunday afternoon. Among the many present were: Louis De Martini, Bacci Rochetta, Roy Franzoia, Bobbie Oaks, Bill Jost, Carl Grossman, John Tialdi, John Musanti, Tony Lavagnino, Joe Lavaroni, Olando Cecchi, and many others. All reported that refreshing beer and pretzels were served.

On last Tuesday evening Miss Juanita Merlo, graduating from Jefferson Union high school, entertained friends at her home on Mateo avenue. Among those present were: Misses Anna and Marie Kahle, Inez Merlo, Dorothy Burns, Bernadette Salmon, Gertrude Gleason, Mr. and Mrs. John Merlo, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Merlo and children, Mrs. Callero, and Mr. A. Schiappacassi.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bertocchi, of Castle street, entertained a number of their friends on last Tuesday evening in honor of their daughter, Mary, who graduated from Jefferson Union high school on the same evening. Delicious refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Lampard, Mr. Pete Barsi and son Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. Pinocchi and daughters, Mrs. C. Benedetti, and Mr. Lorenzo Benedetti, Mr. Louis Gianni, and Miss Albertine Aldinger.

On last Thursday evening Miss Dorothea Peterson was the honored guest at a graduation party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Peterson, of Mission street. A delicious spread was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Collins of Alameda, Mrs. Dorothea Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Peterson and sons of Oakland, Miss Hilda Witt, Mr. Eddie Dennis, Mrs. Siemund and daughters, Hermina and Louise, Mrs. John Garilbaldi, Mrs. Jack Dennis and sons John and Robert.

Relatives and friends of Miss Eleanor Conserva attended the graduating exercises Thursday night of last week, and later gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Conserva where refreshments were served. Eleanor was the recipient of many lovely gifts. Those attending were: Mrs. M. Cummings and daughter Virginia, Mrs. De Mattei and daughter Lillian, Mrs. Nellie Conserva and daughters Juliet and Frances, Mrs. Mary Noe and son Bob, Mrs. Henry Castell and children Helen and Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Conserva and son, and Miss Beryle Michael.

Mrs. Mary Rudolphus, of Washington street, was treated at the Villa Emergency Hospital during the week for a cut wrist which required several stitches. She received the incision while washing dishes in her home.

CLUB OUTLINES SCENIC TOUR

A trip which affords an unlimited diversity of scenery, combined with good roads, is north along the Sonoma and Mendocino counties coast line, according to L. L. Norris, Touring Director, National Automobile Club.

Ferry to Sausalito, then motor via paved highway to San Anselmo and Fairfax. From here to Tocoloma, the road follows Lagunitas Creek most of the way, leading through majestic redwoods. Many enchanting picnicking spots tempt one to divert from the objective and stay.

Paved road continues to Point Reyes. The next five miles are good graded gravel; assurance is given that this stretch will be oiled soon. From the end of the gravel, oiled road is encountered and continues along the shore of Tomales Bay, past the Marconi wireless station and to the little hamlet of Tomales. Farming country is then traversed, then the route returns to the water at Bay, on the shores of Bodega bay. A few miles further on is the rugged coast line of the Pacific. Good oiled road continues to the mouth of the Russian River, which is crossed by a splendid bridge.

Two miles north of the bridge is the picturesque little settlement of Jenner-by-the-Sea. From this point to Point Arena is fair to good gravel road, now being oiled, wide enough at all places for two cars to pass. In places the way winds along cliffs high above the ocean; then leads inland up magnificent canyons, heavily wooded; and again, past large ranches.

The drive from San Francisco to Point Arena may be made easily in from five to six hours; therefore, if this is to be a week end trip, Point Arena would be the logical overnight stop. Comfortable hotel accommodations and several tourist camps are available.

Leaving Point Arena, the good, wide graded gravel road continues through the tiny settlement of Manchester; Greenwood, also known as Elk; and crosses the Navarro River, thence extends through Albion, Little River, Mendocino and Fort Bragg.

The Van Damme State Park, just south of Little River, affords a grand picnicking or overnight camping spot for the motorist with his own equipment. Little River, a delightful mountain stream, winds its way through this park. There is a splendid beach for swimming and boats are available for those who wish to do some fishing. A small charge is made for the privilege of camping here. Sanitary conveniences have been provided.

There are innumerable side roads leading easterly from this section. All afford unlimited pleasure to those who wish to explore the back country.

There are several alternative return routes, but the McDonald-to-the-Sea Highway offers the best traveling conditions. Retrace your route to just south of Albion, then follow excellent oiled gravel along the Navarro River for about fifteen miles. This passes the Dimmick Memorial Park, comprising an inspiring grove of redwoods and affording a lovely camping place right on the bank of the Navarro. Anderson Valley, noted for its fine apples, is the next settlement to be reached. Philo is a little town in the heart of the Valley. Boonville, next in line, is qquite a surprise, as it has developed materially during the past couple of years, aided by the improvement of the highway leading through it.

From Boonville, continue southwesterly through Yorkville to the Redwood Highway at a point eight miles north of Cloverdale. This is all good oiled roads; however, two miles of construction will be encountered just after leaving Yorkville. Here, careful driving is necessary, as traffic is routed over the old and the new roads, and numerous pieces of equipment are being employed.

The Redwood Highway from the Mountain House, where these roads join, is in exceptionally good condition throughout.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

There seems to be quite a number of controversies going on in which the people have divided views.

What the average business man wants is to be able to conduct his business in peace and to make enough to live on and be able to put a little away for the rainy day, which sooner or later comes to the great majority of the human race.

The cheapest road to quick results is though the classified columns of the newspaper.

Hot Springs, Arkansas, seems to be in the limelight as America's best know year around health resort. I suspect that much of the favorable attention it is receiving is due to the national advertising done by the famous Arlington Hotel of that city.

Experienec teaches a lot of people things they should know.

More cities die from lack of public spirit than from any other reason.

The problem of providing playgrounds for the children in the congested sections of our cities no doubt looks formidable, but it has been tackled with success in many cities. There is no reason why it should not be tackled with equal success in all cities.

A whole lot of people should think for themselves instead of having some other fellow think for them.

Knocking never built a business, improved a community, or helped anyone.

Mother Katherine, superior general of the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament, an order which she founded after entering a convent in 1895, and long known as the richest nun in the world, is now seventy years old. She was Mary Katherine Drexel, of the wealthy Drexel family of Philidelphia, and her income of some $365,000 a year is given away, principally to missions and schools she founded for negroes. Truly hers has been a life of sacrifice, which few persons with an income of $1,000 a day would imitate.

Among the novel ideas recently advanced by the Tennessee Valley Authority is that of making mucilage for the government out of surplus sweet potatoes. Our wonder is why the demand for government red tape hasn't served to wipe out the cotton surplus.

Perhaps, after all, the most fortunate people are those who can't obtain credit enough to enable them to live beyond their means.

He nodded and left her. Anne unfolded the crackling sheets to be confronted with Neal's picture and heavy headlines which, in sharp staccato sentences, made it clear even to an unobservant public, how significantly he had scored. He had not only captured the right-hand column on the front page, he had also—she discovered upon following Senator Lee's advice—captured the "leader" on the editorial page; and not in one newspaper, but in all of them. She began to read avidly, flushed with pride.

Her attention was diverted by a stir among the delegates. The permanent chairman was announcing briskly that the names of the candidates for the office of President would be put in nomination, and that the roll of the states would be called by the secretary of the convention. This individual advanced to the front of the stage, and cried out, "A-l-a-b-a-m-a" as if he were challenging the South to mortal combat. A gentleman with a goatee and an expansive, immaculate waistcoat arose from the midst of the Alabama delegation, and replied, as if he were answering the challenge, "Alabama yields to California."

Pandemonium broke loose. The band, blaring its loudest, was completely drowned out by tin whistles, horns and rattles. States' standards waved, flags fluttered from the galleries, the chairman thumped and thudded in vain, and shouted to the ushers to clear the aisles. The portly gentleman who had appeared beside him with a manuscript half an inch thick, in one hand, raised the other hand with a gesture of impatience because he could not make himself heard. But for a quarter of an hour he was quite powerless to do so. When at last the din had partially subsided, he bellowed forth the opening sentences of his address three times.

"The man who I am about to name," he shouted over and over again. But he did not name him. He talked for nearly three-quarters of an hour, and still, as far as he was concerned, his audience was left in the dark as to whom he was describing. At last, with a crescendo of enthusiasm he revealed his secret. The uproar began again. Some of the delegates commenced to parade. Others, conspicuously silent even in the midst of the noise, sat stubbornly in their seats, resisting all efforts to drag them forth. The march continued without them until the most fervid enthusiasts had shouted themselves hoarse and sank down again exhausted. When this happened, the chairman, who had been looking tensely on, as if prepared to spring from the platform at any moment, snapped his eyes in the direction of the secretary, and the secretary took up his challenge again.

"Arizona!" he shouted. Arizona, it appeared, was also in a yielding mood, and again, pandemonium broke loose. Again a would-be nominator, clasping a bulky manuscript, stood impatiently beside the chairman, endeavoring to make himself heard. Again, when his chance finally came, he failed to take the convention into his confidence concerning the identity of his candidate. Again, his final pronouncement was drowned by the whistles, the band, the sound of marching feet. This time it was the men and women who had sat still before who were shouting. The personnel was different; but the process was just the same.

By the time the fifth candidate had been placed in nomination Anne had resumed her reading; and when, exhausted by a tumult which, like the waves of a rough lake, seemed to be rising and falling without going anywhere, she decided that she might as well "see the thing through" since it must in any case be over very soon now, she realized that, when all possible names had been mentioned for the Presidency, there still remained all possible—and impossible—names to mention for the Vice Presidency.

Mornings of it—afternoons of it—evenings of it.

She had the terrible feeling which she had sometimes experienced on a long uncomfortable journey, that it was never going to end. She said so, dizzily, to Senator Lee.

He laughed. "The balloting will begin tomorrow, but we are a long way from the end of the convention yet. Neither of the leading candidates can get two-thirds of the vote. There will be a deadlock."

"And what will happen then?"

"One of them may withdraw, but I doubt that. It's more likely we'll have a compromise candidate."

"Have you any one specially in mind?" she asked, without much real interest.

Afterwards she remembered that Senator Lee had given her no direct answer, and wondered why. But with the first excitement of the balloting she forgot all about it.

For as Senator Lee had predicted, the balloting went on and on and on. She wondered how she could ever have thought the nominating interminable. It was this, instead, that was endless. One week stretched into another and many of the delegates, whose funds were limited, deserted their hotels and betook themselves to lodging houses and cafeterias. The heat folded down over the city like some thick impenetrable blanket.

* * * * * * *

"Darling Anne."

She had been drowned in sleep, the profound, prolonged oblivion of utter exhaustion; but Neal's voice, calling to her brought her back in dizzy waves of memory to the consciousness of her surroundings. The brass bed with the picture of "still life" hanging over it. The pitcher of ice water on the mantelpiece. The faded flowers beside the riddled pincushion. Her bedroom at the Waldorf Astoria. The national convention. The balloting. The Man Who.

"Anne," said Neal again. And again, "Darling.' Her head was still heavy with slumber. But through it flashed the love-laden thought that he needed her. She sat up, pulling at a shoulder strap that had slipped away from her white shoulder, and pushing back the soft masses of her hair.

"What is it?" she asked.

"I wanted to tell you—how much I love you."

She laughed comfortably and stretched out her arms.

"Is that all?" she said lightly, "not that it isn't enough—worth more than anything else in the world! But you don't wake me up in the middle of the night usually to tell me so! You expect me to take it for granted!" Then with sudden apprehension clutching at her heart, "Neal," she cried, "there isn't anything wrong, is there? You haven't had bad news from the children?"

"But I—Came Home to You—to Tell You That I Had Been Nominated President of the United States."

"No, no," he said soothingly. "The children are all right. It's just—" He broke off, and sitting down beside her on the bed, put his arms around her. "I think I haven't told you often enough perhaps—what you mean to me. I have let you take it for granted. I have taken you for granted—or seemed to. I haven't really. I wouldn't have amounted to—to much of anything, without you. No one realizes that better than I. You've had all the qualities I've lacked—courage and endurance and talent and faith and vision. I've known all that, Anne, from the first moment I saw you, and I've loved you from that moment, too. I've never stopped trying since that night we stood in the meadow and pledged our lives to each other—to give you what I promised you then—lace to wear instead of calico. Real lace. The lace—of a queen."

"What are you trying to tell me, Neal?" she breathed.

"That the convention is over, that the deadlock is broken." His voice failed him suddenly, and he trembled violently, but he collected himself and went on. "When you told me you thought you wouldn't go to Madison Square garden again, I didn't urge you because—well, I still couldn't be sure, though from the very beginning I have hoped—I have thought—I have had such good loyal friends working for me—I have known how events were shaping—" Realizing that he was becoming incoherent, he checked himself again, and again went on. "On the ninety-seventh ballot some one—a southerner—voted for me. Then there were several scattered votes from New England. A whole western delegation. When the count was ready I had nearly a hundred. On the next ballot there were over three hundred and then—and then— Oh, Anne, I'll never forget those banners—those marching feet—those lifted voices singing — cheering — shouting. They got me up on the platform and I—spoke to them. And afterwards they wanted me to go away with them. But I—came home to you—to tell you that I had been nominated President of the United States."

In the carpeted corridor beyond men and women passed, calling to each other excitedly. Porters wheeling trucks that squeaked, banged baggage hastily out of rooms that had suddenly been vacated and carted it away. The roar of the city lifted from the streets suddenly rushed through the dim room. The shrill voice of newsboys rose screaming above the blare of bands and the confusion of traffic.

"Extra—extra!"—"Dark Horse wins!"—"Conrad nominated for President!" "Extra! Extra!"

"But I," repeated Neal, "came home—to you."

[THE END.]

Summer of Wide Brims Is Message

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT'S breathtaking the way millinery has burst into a blaze of glory before our enchanted eyes this season. Everything from flowers to feathers, fruit trimmings, ribbons and brims of startling dimension seems to be conspiring to bring "real millinery" back into the picture once more.

Now that brims have definitely "arrived" you may wear them as huge as you care to wear them. Fashion places no limit to their dimensions. Not for season upon season have brims been so wide, so versatile, so everywhere present, so chic and so picturesque.

In the circle leghorn and roses tell a summery tale of hats-beautiful such as will be worn with frocks of exotic print, with gowns of lace, or of net, pastel chiffons or organdies.

In the other large circle is a huge black panama with the new fruit trimming which is considered quite the last word this season. You must have at least one hat trimmed with a wee apple or so, or a trio of plums and green leaves, or a cluster of cherries or berries of some sort—anything just so it is tempting looking artificial fruit. By the way, the fruit motif in dress prints is also very good this season.

The hat up in the left corner of the group has one of those wee semi-wreathes about the front of its crown which is decorative yet conservative enough to permit this wide-brimmed chapeau to be worn with simple daytime costumes.

Just below, centered to the left, is a hat of rough cire straw, for cire and cellulose black straws, you must know, are the rage. So, also, are all-black fabrics of cired luster. A perky multi-colored quill imparts a dash and a go to this simple tailored hat which is just what is needed in a headpiece which is to top one's cloth or linen suit.

Brims that turn up in the back are excellent style, and are a pleasing change from the conventional cartwheel of the merry widow type. The model shown in the lower left corner is indicative of this trend. Its simple ribbon trim tunes it to wear with the daytime tailleur.

Transparent brims are important millinery news. Huge capelines sheer as can be add an exquisite touch to the summer picture. Illustrated at the top, to the right, is a charming transparent brim. The bouquet of flowers together with a simple ribbon band trim this chapeau effectively.

Comes next, below to the right, a coolie beach hat. It has a cunning buckle fastening under the chin. Not only beach hats reflect the Chinese influence, for many of the smartest dress models carry pointed crowns which are so shallow they almost glide right into their large drooping-all-around brims in true coolie fashion.

Last in the picture is an immense cartwheel which is strictly tailored. Of course the new exceedingly shallow crowns, posed at so perilous an angle as most of them are, would never in the world stay on themselves and so here is a final message—old-style, now new style, elastic or hatpins!

SHEER RAYON DOT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Rayon has won its way to the top. Upon it leading designers have set their seal of approval. Dotted sheers in self color is the last word in summer materials. Raised rayon dots on a mousseline de rayon background describes the handsome all-black fabric which fashions the gown illustrated. This model is making a very prideful showing in the collection of man-made materials which the Fashion Group of America have been exhibiting in New York. They are smart for dinner and evening gowns but the big news concerning them is that the swankiest of daytime jacket suits and enesembles are being made of them. a tailleur of net being the newest of the new.

PASTEL WOOL NOW POPULAR FAVORITE

Every season sees some new fashion development which springs up mushroom fashion, overnight. This year it is short, loose or belted swagger coats of white or pastel wool over town frocks of plain or printed crepe.

These coats are sold separately. They are quite inexpensive. And they give a decidedly fresh and summery air to a dark ensemble. They may take the place of the black or navy redingote with which you started out the spring season.

String color is very smart with black or navy. Other popular shades are a deep dusty yellow, linen blue, and a soft leaf green. In many instances the color of the coat is accented in the print of the frock, or in some detail of belt, scarf or other trimming.

Evening Tailleurs Seen in Various Novel Fabrics

New evening tailleurs, combining a tailored jacket and instep-length skirt ready for restaurant dining, are fashioned of novel fabrics along striking lines. One suit of silver lame with a trim tailored jacket is finished with a black satin blouse and a facing of the same sable fabric inside the skirt hem. Black faille or taffeta suits cut on the same lines appear with either long-sleeved or sleeveless blouses of white organdie or flame red crepe.

Refreshing Colors Now Feature Newest Fashions

Colors this season are amazingly refreshing. There's a "Flagship" blue with all of the light in it of a sky from a sailing vessel. Russet is swapped from fall shades for spring and competes with the new clay some people object to.

Pale blue with a lavender tinge is lovely in knitted wear and for evening, with deeper blue trim. And brown comes in more different tinges than ever before.

Back Fullness

Black fullness in evening dresses continues to be their most noteworthy feature. It is achieved by ruffles, cascades of flounces, bustles and other devices.

ZEKE'S BEER GARDEN

By R. K. WILKINSON

©. Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

I HAVE known Zeke Taylor for a score of years.

He is an old man now, one of Dexter's oldest inhibitants.

He should, at his age, be retired from active business, should be spending declining years as most old men of Dexter spend them—spinning yarns with Elmer Stone and Sam Cook on the veranda of the Suncook hotel, or seated comfortably before the open fire of his own home with glowing pipe and pleasant dreams.

That's how it should be, for it is these simple things from which Dexter folk derive their greatest pleasure.

But Zeke cannot retire and live on his savings, for no savings have been set aside for this purpose.

Some say he lacked in thrift and foresight during the days when his little grocery store, with its lunch counter stretched across one side of it, knew a lively business.

Some say he was shiftless and lazy.

But those of us who have been closely associated with Zeke know that none of these accusations are founded on truth or fact.

* * *

Zeke might not have been attentive to business, but he was never shiftless or lazy.

His life has been one filled with little deeds of kindness.

And from them he derived his keenest enjoyment.

Zeke Taylor has been friend to every man who crossed his path.

Quite forgetful of his own future, he has helped this one in distress, counseled that one in matters of grave importance, lent moral and financial support to countless charitable movements and unselfishly denied himself when some stricken brother was sorely in need of aid.

The little things of life have meant much to Zeke, and others have benefited by this peculiarity of his makeup.

But now that Zeke is aged, these things are forgotten.

Folks are wondering what will become of the old man, fearful that sooner or later he will be "on the town."

And because of their forgetfulness they are hard and condemning.

* * *

Not long ago I dropped into Zeke's store for a chat, and found him sunk into the depths of gloom.

He was, he told me, contemplating bankruptcy.

His creditors were pressing.

Business was going across the street to the new modern lunch room, recently opened.

The old man was sorely hurt, inwardly wincing at thoughts of failure and being on the town.

His pride was hurt, though his words held no note of bitterness or complaint.

It was about this time that the taxpayers of the United States were, in a manner of speaking, quite steamed up over the beer and light-wine issue. It seemed almost inevitable that three point two would be legalized.

I mentioned this to Zeke and he brightened considerably.

One thing led to another and it wasn't long before Zeke's ordinarily lively imagination took on a new lease of life and began to function.

I followed him through the rear door of the place and into the space beyond.

There was a green lawn here and a shade tree or two.

Almost instantly I sensed what was in the old man's mind. A beer garden! A real old fashioned beer garden!

The spot was ideal; the location perfect; the old and musty surroundings especially inducive.

Moreover, there wasn't another store or lunch room in town so naturally and adequately equipped for the purpose.

* * *

We discussed the idea at length. And the more we talked the brighter became the look in Zeke's eyes.

His enthusiasm and eagerness, resembling that of a child, brought a lump to my throat.

I fell in with Zeke's plans quite whole-heartedly. And when a frown suddenly appeared on his face at some abrupt thought, I actually became alarmed.

The establishment of a beer garden would, he remembered, entail the expenditure of a sum of money. And Zeke at the moment was absolutely penniless.

Of course, I agreed to provide the necessary funds, an act which, I believe, has given me more pleasure than any equal expenditure prior to or after that day.

There was no need, I told myself, to let Zeke know that the money I invested was the extent of my entire savings; that, should the beer garden experiment go to seed, I would be as penniless as he.

And so, in the utmost secrecy, we went ahead with our plans.

None of the dozens of folks who passed daily to and fro in the street before Zeke's store so much as suspected that in the plot beyond the rear door a real and enchanting beer garden was being constructed. It was to be a surprise.

Zeke, despite his decrepitness, worked like a Trojan.

Tables were conveniently placed in a great, sweeping circle, with a brightly colored umbrella above each. A trench was dug and water piped to a fountain skillfully fashioned of cement and rocks in the center of the plot by Zeke's own hands.

The shade trees were trimmed up, shrubbery thinned to a respectable density, flowers and hedges planted where their effect would be most beneficial.

The finished product was something to admire.

And during its construction the beer and light wine bill had been rushed through congress and was passed.

The day that it was signed I rushed down to Zeke's store in a high state of excitement; a state which was short-lived.

For Zeke greeted me at the door and the expression on his face betrayed glumness and disappointment within.

"It's the license," he told me [illegible] I questioned him. "We got to [illegible] a license to sell beer and the danged thing cost 200 bucks!"

* * *

I stared at him blankly.

It was true. We had expended our last penny on equipment, holding out only enough funds to pay for our first shipment of beer, already ordered.

It seemed like a little thing, yet in that moment I knew it meant the difference between being able to open on time—or ever for that matter.

There wasn't a soul we could go to for funds.

Zeke's creditors were pressing. My own resources were exhausted.

It looked pretty bad.

And then when it seemed we would have to abandon the entire project, Zeke came through with an idea.

It was a brilliant idea, quite characteristic of the Zeke whose brilliant ideas had helped one man or another over rough spots in the days when things were booming in Dexter and a man didn't have to sneak in somebody's back door to get his drink of beer.

At first I was skeptical, but the more Zeke talked of his idea the more convinced I was that it would work.

Had the situation been less serious I would have laughed mightily at this plan of his and wagered with anyone who wanted to wager that it would not work.

* * *

Anyway we put the idea into execution.

On the day that beer was legalized we hung out the sign which Zeke had painted and flung wide the door.

At first folks came out of sheer curiosity. Grinning, they poked their noses inside and looked around.

It was sight of that cozy little garden in back that brought them all the way in.

It was uncanny.

We actually had to hire outside help to take care of all the customers.

Zeke's old cash register kept ringing all day and far into the night. It was incredible that beer and cheese and pretzels could hold such an appeal to so many people at once.

The next day the rush was greater, and the day following, Sunday, we were forced to hire three extra waiters.

We were off to a running start, and it looked as if we were going to keep running.

Things were moving smoothly a week later when quite unexpectedly a government agent came in and asked to see our license.

Zeke winked broadly in my direction and produced the requested document.

* * *

The agent ran hawk-like eyes over the written words and looked at Zeke sharply.

"This license was issued two days ago. You've been selling beer more than a week!"

"Sure," said Zeke, while I held my breath, "that's right. We waited till we'd taken in enough money to buy us a license, and we bought one."

"Admit it, eh? Well, get your coat, mister, you're coming with me."

"Wait a minute," says Zeke. "That there license is for 3.2. Up till two days ago I ain't sold a mug of 3.2."

The agent stared.

"You're nuts. You got a sign out there says 'beer,' and folks have been coming here for a week."

"Sure," Zeke agreed, "they been coming here. But they ain't been drinking 3.2. They been drinking near beer. I advertised beer for sale, but I didn't stipulate what kind of beer. And these dumb bunnies who have been yapping for beer and light wines didn't know the difference."

It was true.

These customers who constituted our first rush had been drinking near beer and never knew it. And the agent was good enough sport to keep his mouth shut.

Zeke serves real beer now, or rather the man to whom he leased his garden does.

Zeke himself spends his days on the veranda of the Suncook hotel, yarning with Elmer Stone and Sam Cook about the days when beer was beer, and he never had a worry in the world.

Mexican Fashion Note

The idea of male garb for women has been a complete failure in Mexico. Girls who appear in public in the provincial cities wearing male clothes are chased home by mobs of men and women who hurl verbal insults and sticks, stones and overripe vegetables.

LOWER REGISTRATION FEE TREND DISPLAYED

During the twelve month period extending from April 1, 1933, to April 4, 1934, no less than nineteen states put into effect reduced registration fees on private passenger automobiles, according to a report received by the California State Automobile Association based upon a nation-wide survey on this form of motor vehicle taxation.

The report declares that the survey produced evidence that the movement toward reduction of registration fees has spread to every section of the United States with the exception of the northeastern area. It is pointed out that the trend was found to be especially notable in the southern states, where registration costs and gasoline tax rates have been particularly heavy.

Following is a list of the states which have enacted automobile owner relief legislation in the form of lower license fees: Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and Vermont.

In commenting on the situation, the report declares:

"The truth that high taxation always defeats its own purposes is gradually dawning on legislators. High registration fees resulted in thousands of automobiles being kept out of use for long periods. This meant that owners of these idle cars were paying neither license fees nor gasoline taxes to the state, while they were foregoing the benefits of their investment in automobiles.

"The easing of the registration burden was speedily reflected in increased registrations, increased gasoline consumption, more revenue to the states, and a material contribution to general business recovery."

A STITCH IN TIME

By the California Medical Association

If one's automobile should develop serious engine trouble, very little time is lost in taking it to a repair shop. But the human body, much tougher than the metal machine, is often left to struggle along for years after some serious "engine trouble" develops, and until it can run no more.

This is particularly true in hernia, a common form of human "engine trouble."

Hernia is the protusion of a sac containing a piece of bowel or other abdominal contents through a weak place in the abdominal muscles. The constant pressure of the abdominal contents outward in the course of muscular exertion weakens and stretches this weak place, until hernia or "rupture" develops.

Physicians say that a weak spot in the abdominal wall may exist from birth. That is, the individual may be born with a potential rupture.

The intestine may be kept within the abdominal by a truss, but the modern physician advises a permanent repair. The victim of rupture is always threatened with strangulated hernia.

When strangulation occurs, the circulation of the intestine is choked off and the bowel is obstructed. This is a dangerous condition requiring immediate surgery, and sometimes involves the removal of the projecting section where a gangrenous condition has developed.

It is better to have this repair done early since strangulated hernia in an elderly person may prove fatal. Hernias tend to strangulate late in life when the patient is a poor operative risk.

The repairing of the weak abdominal wall is a caomparitively simple operation in the hands of a skillful surgeon and is permanent in the great majority of cases.

Repaired, the break in the addominal wall is generally stronger than before.

Hernia left unrepaired tends to lessen one's efficiency. It may be the cause of considerable pain. And it may cause disturbance in the activity of the bowels.

Dr. C. V. Thompson is a Candidate for Re-election

Four years ago I became the first representative of the new Fifth district, Burlingame and Millbrae, on the board of supervisors. Today, on the basis of these four years of service, I am offering myself as a candidate to continue as the representative of this district.

Many changes in county governmental affairs have been made during the past four years, which bring new responsibilities to, and demand greater service of a supervisor. In the coming primary election the supervisor assumes new status, in that he becomes not only responsible to his district, but to the county as a whole.

The new county charter has brought these changes, and in so doing has advanced San Mateo county from the horse and buggy form of government to a modern one. However, no form of government, no matter how beneficial to the people, can be a success without sympathetic office holders, just as no corporation can succeed without a board of directors interested in its welfare, and the welfare of those who make it possible.

Since the inception of the charter I have been for it, and the records will show since it became the law of the county it has had no advocate more sincere or more staunch in upholding it. It is fundamentally sound, and can achieve marked efficiency and economy if sympathetically interpreted and applied.

San Mateo county has passed successfully through a hectic year in government and in economics. The ensuing year promises to be less hectic economically, but governmentally there are many things to be done, if the charter is to work the way the thousands who inaugurated it meant that it should work. Mature and sane judgment, a thorough knowledge of conditions and long experience in governmental procedure will be needed to give this county the improved government it requires, and rightfully should have.

I have been a resident of San Mateo county for many years, and have been intimately associated with its governmental structure. I feel sincerely that I can continue to be of real service, not only to my district, but the county at large, because I know conditions and am widely experienced in county legislative procedure.

A review of the records will show to the electorate of my district and to the county at large that there has never been a single issue involving the welfare of my district, or the county as a whole, upon which I have not been right.

In submitting these facts for your consideration, I ask your continued support and extend to you the assurance that it shall always be my highest ambition to merit your confidence. Your governmental interest and welfare, the constructive development of the county, and the will of the people shall continue to be my first and only consideration as a member of the Board of Supervisors.

MINING NOTES

A. L. Howard, affiliated in the operation of the Salt Chuck Mine, went north from Seattle last week to Ketchikan to inaugurate preparations for working the properties. Ore samples from the mine sent to Seattle proved to be as valuable as anticipated and the work is to go ahead. Active operations are expected to be under way next week.

The copper industry is much better today than it was a year ago. World stocks of copper on hand May 1 were reduced to a total of 1,135,000,000 pounds. World consumption during April was about 240,000,000 pounds, or somewhat under the consumption for the month of March. On May 1 world stocks of copper on hand represented an amount sufficient for less than a five months' supply at the April rate of consumption.

Here's an encouraging paragraph, taken from the Mining Review of Salt Lake City: "Increasing activity in the metal mining industry, augmented by $35 gold, and a more favorable outlook for other metals, is the gladsome refrain now growing in volume and strength from all sections of the West. A recent survey among more than four thousand companies from Arizona to the Canadian border gives definite evidence of a return to activity. Assayers are busy again, old mills are turning wheels that haven't moved in more than three years, and many new ore treating plants are contemplated, smelter receipts show a substantial increase in ore shipments, and equipment and supply houses are awakening, after a long nap, to realize that there is a growing interest in their merchandise. The outlook for mining is better than it has been for years. That, in turn, considerably improves the outlook for recovery in general."

Workers, farmers, storekeepers, professional men, industrialists of all kinds, will smile happily on reading that. It means thousands of potential jobs, a vast jump in Western purchasing power, a tremendous field for selling services and commodities of every kind and shape—from legal knowledge to groceries. And it likewise means revived tax income for government.

The silver bill will have no immediate inflationary effects. The act gives the president a new inflationary which he might use when pressure becomes too great. The bill as it now stands calls for a 50 per cent tax on the profit in silver bullion.

Bethlehem Steel first quarter report this year shows operations around 39 per cent of capacity. This reduced net loss after interest, taxes, depreciation, etc., to $902,044 from the $5,769,451 loss shown in a like period of 1933.

At the annual meeting of the Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining Co. held in the oval room of the Vancouver Hotel in Seattle on the afternoon of May 30 several hundred shareholders of the company heard Dr. Burnett, the company president, outline the progress of the company during the past year and reiterate their confidence in the present management by re-electing the present directors without a dissenting vote. Production is to be stepped up to 120 tons daily, it was reported.

A SOUTHERN POET

Sidney Lanier, one of the South's greatest poets, was a most accomplished and wersatile man, and was in turn a mechanic, solider, teacher, professional musician, lawyer and poet during his thirty-eight years of life, although a sufferer from tuberculosis, contracted in his early twenties as a result of service in the Confederate army, including five months as a prisoner.

After the war he held a clerkship in Montgomery, Alabama; was principal of an academy at Pratville, Georgia, studied and practiced law in Macon, Georgia, his birthplace; spent a while in Texas for his health with little result; played first flute in the Peabody symphony concerts in Baltimore; composed music to his own songs; wrote the official cantata for the Centennial exposition in Philadelphia, and was finally a lecturer on English literature at Johns Hopkins University for a few months before his health completely failed.

Although not appreciated by critics at first, Lanier's poems have long been widely acclaimed, especially his "Corn," "Sunrise," "The Symphony," "Psalm of the West," "The Song of the Chattahoochee," "The Marshes of Glynn," and the cantata already mentioned. He also wrote "Tiger-Lillies," a war novel, and "Science of English Verse."

His son, Henry Wysham Lanier, is a well know New York author and publisher, who was editor of the Golden Book magazine from 1925 to 1928.

Possibly in a few years the "choo-choo" train will be seen only in museums. A pioneer in new rail transportation equipment, now being exhibited in Chicago by the Burlington, is a streamlined motor train, 197 feet long and carrying 73 passengers, powered by a 660-h.p. Diesel engine, and capable of a speed exceeding 100 miles an hour. Its weight is only 95 tons, or approximately that of one Pullman.

ATHLETE'S FOOT

Reams of medical literature and lurid magazine advertisements have pushed "Athlete's Foot" into the very front rank of popular American maladies.

A few medical writers consider it a serious public health menace, while many more admit its prevalence but emphasize the fact that most cases rapidly clear up under one of innumerable remedies. All agree that occasional cases, especially where there is deep invasion of the soles and upper surface of the feet, are extremely difficult to cure and may cause considerable disability, even under the most expert treatment.

Out of this immense amount of medical, popular, and advertising literature, and experience with many cases in schools and military camps, the following pointers may be stated as a concensus of opinion.

1. Poor foot hygiene is the basis of most cases.
2. Unhygenic feet (especially if they sweat excessively), are very easily infected.
3. The infecting organism is one of the ringworm group of fungi which is exceedingly widespread and will live indefinitely in any dark moist place.
4. Floors of gymnasiums, locker rooms, shower rooms and those surrounding swimming pools are likely to harbor the fungi, but old shoes, home bathroom floors and even beach sand may be sources of infection or re-infection.
5. Bare, slightly roughened cement floors are best for shower rooms and dressing rooms. Mats on floor boards of any kind are very likely to spread infection unless dried and sunned daily.
6. Any successful remedy for excessive perspiration of feet is likely to cure or prevent infection. Cases which do not respond promptly to the usual remedies should be referred to skin specialists.
7. Recurrences are likely to occur any time unless treatment is continued until all vestiges of trouble are eliminated.
8. Diagnosis is largely a matter of definition and personal experience of the examiner; many borderline cases are often diagnosed, which are slight or doubtful, and have no clinical significance.
9. Foot hygiene—frequent washing followed by careful drying, a good powder, light porous shoes, and treatment for excessive perspiration — is the best means of personal prevention.
10. Keeping bare feet from contact with floors possibly infected, by means of rubber or oiled paper shoes, has been advocated but is of doubtful advantage aside from expense.
11. Various antiseptics applied to floors may be effective, but must be non-irritating to feet. They are seldom needed if the floors are thoroughly dried each day.

In response to questionnaires sent to large corporations by the Federal Trade Commission, the salaries of the nation's highest paid executives were recently disclosed. The largest salary and bonus combined for 1932 was that of George W. Hill of the American Tobacco Company, $825,500. The highest straight salary was that of Chairman Schwab of Bethlehem Steel, $250,000. (Greta Garbo gets $300,000 for a forty-week year.) Owen D. Young of General Electric received $73,534, the highest paid to any executive in the electrical industry.

A lawsuit started in the year 1327 in which four districts in France contended for 16,000 acres of land was recently settled by dividing the land among the four districts. An apparently reasonable decision, even if it did take more than 600 years to get around to it.

Ever hear of Snorri Karlsefni? No? Well, according to Dr. Amandus Johnson of Chicago, decipherer of old Scandanavian recordes, Snorri was the first white child born in America, in 1004, some 583 years before the birth of the famed Virginia Dare.

After J. W. King of Atlanta, Ga., had proved in court that his cow and hogs died, his four children were ill, and had lost his job, the judge placed him on probation instead of giving him a jail sentence for drowning his sorrows in liquor.

URGE INCREASE IN BUDGET

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors last Monday adopted the salary budget for next year, following figures set forth in the new county charter, and as a result heard a storm of protest at their Redwood City meeting.

Charges were made at the meeting that at least two elective officials, who must carry the expense of campaigns will receive less salary than appointive officials not required to face election. The two officers are the county clerk and the county controller.

The charter provides salaries of $3,500 a year for each, while certain appointive officials receive $4,000 a year. In the argument before the supervisors it was maintained that the charter figure was a minimum, and the board had the power to raise the salaries of these two offices to a par with other administrative officials.

The Capuchino district was included in the Lomita Park fire district as a result of the meeting, after an amended petition, which excluded two other sections in the vicinity, won the boards approval. It was presented by Charles T. Benjamin.

We read "when a Japanese young woman reaches thirty without having acquired a husband it is considered a tragedy." The same as in America.

CROCKER P.-T. A. CHANGES THE DATE OF PICNIC

Owing to the fact that Mrs. J. E. Walker, junior past president of Crocker P.-T. A., must attend a meeting of the County Welfare committee each Tuesday, the last meeting over which she will preside as president, which was to be held next Tuesday, June 12, has been postponed by action of the executive board, to Thursday, June 14. This meeting will be held at Fleischacker Play Grounds, and every member is urged to be present with their children and friends. Each one is asked to provide lunch for those in their party. During the day, punch will be furnished by the P.-T. A. free of charge. Come early and spend the day with us. If the weather does not permit of a picnic, arrangements will made for a further postponement of the date.

Mrs. R. Foppiano, of Evergreen avenue, is receiving the sympathy of her many friends upon the death of her uncle, Gustave Lindner, who passed away suddenly last Saturday from a heart attack.

VOLUME 6 FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1934 NUMBER 46

Published in the interests of the People of Daly City and vicinity by H. H. Smith and Employees.

Judge: "Well, here you are again, Rastus."

Rastus: "Yassuh, boss, I's back afore you again, but dis time Ah got a cause."

Judge: "Well, what is it, Rastus?"

Rastus: "Judge, what would you do if someone steal your gal?"

Judge: "I'd cut her company, Rastus."

Rastus: "Dat's jes' what Ah did—and Ah cut him deep."

Heat and cook with Coal—the safe and helpful home heating fuel.

"There's no difficulty in the world that cannot be overcome."

"Is zat so! Say, did you ever try to push the tooth paste back in the tube?"

A man entered a hotel, placed his overcoat on a rack and attached a card to it on which was written: "This coat belongs to a champion prize-fighter. Back in ten minutes."

When he returned the overcoat was gone but the card was still there. To it had been added: "Overcoat was taken by champion long distance runner. Won't be back at all."

Kindling and Block Wood.

Nurse: "I lost sight of the child ma'am."

Ma'am: "Good gracious! Why didn't you speak to a policeman?"

Nurse: "Well, I was speaking to one at the time, ma'am."

Money was the cause of the Scotchman jumping out of the twentieth story window; a revolver, rope or poison would have cost too much.

The man who brags "I run things in my house," usually refers to the lawn mower, the washing machine, vacuum cleaner, baby carriage and the errands.

Daly City is a fine place. Are you doing your share to beautify it?

It's easy enough to be pleasnant when everything's festive and gay; but the driver worth while is the one with the smile when he's gone forty miles the wrong way.

Of all things you wear, your expression is the most important.
